STRIX SYSTEMS EXPANDS WIRELESS MESH LEADERSHIP INTO SOUTHEAST ASIA WITH CELLSTAR PACIFIC

CellStar Pacific Becomes Strix System's Regional Master Stocking Value-Added Distributor

CALABASAS, Calif., May 23, 2006 – Strix Systems, the leader in high-performance wireless mesh networking, today announced that it has expanded its sales and distribution channel in Asia with the appointment of CellStar Pacific Pte Ltd as a regional master stocking value-added distributor (VAD). CellStar Pacific will distribute Strix's industry-leading Access/One® line of products for indoor and outdoor wireless mesh networks in Australia, New Zealand, Singapore, the Philippines, Malaysia, Indonesia, and other Southeast Asian countries, excluding Japan. The company will also support all existing Strix channel partners. This agreement further strengthens Strix's presence in Asia, complementing its office in Japan, which provides local support for a growing network of VADs and partners.

“CellStar Pacific strategically chose to carry Strix's multi-channel, multi-RF, and multi-radio solution because of its strong sales potential in Southeast Asia,” said Stephen Kwan, CEO of CellStar Pacific. “Strix is the proven technology leader, and its solution is ideal for deploying mesh across any topography with the highest throughput and greatest scalability. The Access/One product line is the exceptional choice for use in a region experiencing rapid growth.”

CellStar Pacific Pte Ltd is a regional player in Asia Pacific, delivering complete wireless solutions to both enterprises and consumers. The Strix/CellStar Pacific relationship will support numerous wireless communication projects and wireless broadband services in the regional market.

“Strix is actively building a solid distribution channel and presence in Southeast Asia to support local wireless LAN integrators,” said Tom Mooreland, vice president of development and strategic sales at Strix Systems. “The appointment of CellStar Pacific enables us to provide a new level of pre- and post-sales support and local stocking of Access/One products to a burgeoning area that is embracing the benefits of wireless solutions.”
